

After 2 years, devotees throng ancient Rehoshra temple to join traditional Ashtami festival celebrations

■ RAJA REHBER JAMAL

BHADARWAH: After a gap of two years, traditional Ashtami (8th Navratra) festival which remained suspended for devotees due to pandemic, thousands of pilgrims converged at hill top ancient temple to offer prayers at Asht-Bhuj goddess temple and join the festivities.

Festivities broke out with people in large numbers reaching 1000 year old temple from early in morning at Rehoshra Dhar located at a height of 8000 ft above sea level.

Nestled in the hilly region around 8,000 feet above sea level, Rehoshra is famous for its ancient namesake temple. It is believed to host the local deity of goddess Sheetla.

State Times Correspondent of Chenab Valley Raja Rehber Jamal trekked 8 Km steep hill to reach the ancient Temple to cover the Ashtami Mela.

The place with no population around 8 Km radius also hosts ancient Naga Cult which becomes alive during Navratras, especially on Ashtami (eight day of Navratra) as thousands of devotees converge at 1000-year-old High altitude temple to seek the blessings of goddess Sheetla.

The place is surrounded by lush greenery and rich biodiversity. The shrine is located in a mountain pass, situated in Doda district is 43 km away from Bhadarwah town. Legend has it that Rehoshra temple is believed to have its origins in Moghal emperor Babar's era.

Continuing with their age old tradition depicting their unique ancient culture, thousands of devotees converged at high altitude meadow to celebrate Ashtami as a prelude to Dushera Festival, a symbol of Nag Culture in mountainous Bhadarwah Valley with full religious fervor and gaiety.

Record 20,000 devotees paid obeisance at ancient Rehoshra Mata Temple located at a height of 8,000 feet from sea level, the doors (Kewaar) of which were opened on first Navratra.

The ancient festival which marks the beginning of autumn followed by harsh winters in this hilly region, symbolising the ancient Naga cult of Bhadarwah is considered the last festival of the year during harvest season.

The traditional celebrations started early in morning with the opening of the kewaars of the historic temple which was burnt during militancy, followed by sacrificing of Rams. Hundreds of Nag devotees converged at hill top meadow surrounded with snow peaked mountains, after trekking 8 km steep hill to pay obeisance.

On this occasion dozens of sheep were sacrificed as per ancient custom.

Chief organiser and Sarpanch of Sunarthawa Panchayat, Rakesh Charak said that this festival has not only of the religious importance but this is also the most ancient festival of this area. Due to pandemic the festival remained suspended for the common devotees and far us Navratra are incomplete without paying obeisance on Ashtami here at Rehoshra. We are delighted to be here again with full strength.

Holy mace (Charri Mubarak) from chinta, Shourara , Nalthi, Chirala, Sunarthawa, Atalgarh, Rainda and Dalain reached the Temple at 12 noon, after which people started celebrating Ashtami festival with traditional Dekhu dance. Community food(Langar) was served to all the devotees by the volunteers of Chinta Village beside administration had made adequate security arrangements for the safety of devotees.
