Four-Year Choubarsi remembrance for my beloved maternal grandmother

Mataji, four years have passed since you embarked on your celestial journey, leaving all of us with an indelible void in our hearts. Today, as we gather to commemorate your Choubarsi, I reflect upon the enduring legacy of a woman whose profound impact continues to resonate within the tapestry of our lives. Mataji, your presence, like the resplendent glow of a rare gem, illuminated our world with warmth, compassion, and enlightenment. Mata ji you possessed an extraordinary ability to enkindle the flames of curiosity within us, kindling the embers of our intellect with narratives that spanned epochs and cultures. Through you, I discovered the grandeur of human history and the vast repository of family knowledge that your sagacious mind had accumulated over decades including the partition time.

During the darkest storms, your unflinching love and care was the lighthouse guiding us through tumultuous waters, providing a haven of solace and reassurance. Your love was the quintessence of a profound, enduring affection that transcended time and circumstance.

As we stand here today, commemorating your Choubarsi, I recall the melodic cadence of your laughter, the warmth of your embrace, and the timeless wisdom you imparted. The passage of four years has not dimmed my love; it has only deepened my appreciation for the profound legacy you have left behind.

In the annals of our family history, you will forever remain the embodiment of grace, wisdom, and boundless love. On your Choubarsi, I recall not only memorable moments with you but also the enduring essence of your spirit, which will continue to guide me through life's intricate maze. Pranam Mataji @Shilpa Sudan

Dussehra celebrated across country with great zeal

STATE TIMES NEWS

NEW DELHI: Dussehra also known as Vijaydashmi was celebrated on Tuesday across the country with different rituals and activities, marking the triumph of good over evil.

Huge effigies of demon king Ravana, his son Meghnad and brother Kumbhakarna went up in flames at various grounds across the length and breadth of the country in celebrations attended by common people as well as political leaders.

President Droupadi Murmu, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, former Congress president Sonia Gandhi and several other leaders attended events across Delhi to mark the festivities.

Prime Minister Modi attended an event in Dwarka in the national capital and called upon people to finish off forces trying to divide the country with casteism and regionalism, saying Dussehra should also mark the burning of ideologies which are not about India's development but about fulfilling selfish interests.

Addressing a gathering at the event, he said the festival should not be confined to the burning of Ravana's effigies and Lord Ram's victory over the demon but also mark the triumph of patriotism over every evil in the country.

Modi shot an arrow using a ceremonial bow, kick-starting the Lanka Dahan celebrations. President Murmu attended celebrations hosted by the Shri Dharmik Leela Committee at the ground opposite the Red Fort here. She was later handed a ceremonial bow and arrow to shoot towards the effigies, following which they were set ablaze.

Senior Congress leader Sonia Gandhi attended an event hosted by the Nav Shri Dharmik Leela Committee. Amid chants of 'Jai Shri Ram', Gandhi was gifted a copy of the Ramayana at the event.

Delhi Lieutenant Governor V K Saxena and Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal also attended Dussehra festivities hosted by different Ramlika committees.

Kejriwal joined the celebrations at the Red Fort here and said his government is trying to serve the people of the national capital, taking inspiration from the ideals of Lord Ram.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh celebrated Dussehra with Army soldiers in Arunachal Pradesh's Tawang, a strategically key region close to the frontier with China.

Dussehra signifies the victory of good over evil, Singh said after performing Shastra Puja (worship of weapons) at a military base.

Dussehra also marked the end of the nine-day festivities of 'Navratra'. In West Bengal, goddess Durga idols were immersed on Vijaydashami at various river ghats across the state.

The Kolkata police made elaborate security measures at the 34 ghats along the Hooghly river in the city, a senior officer said.

During the day, women participated in the traditional 'Sindur Khela' (smearing vermilion on each other's faces) and offered sweets and prayers to the goddess before bidding her farewell for the year.

In Kolkata, several celebrities, including actor Rituparna Sengupta, took part in the Sindur Khela ritual at various community puja pandals.

In Jammu and Kashmir, people thronged the Sher-e-Kashmir cricket stadium in Srinagar to celebrate Dussehra. Giant effigies were set afire at the practice ground of the cricket stadium amidst thunderous cheers from the people, officials said.

A large number of Muslims, including PDP leader Iltija Mufti, also came to witness the celebrations, they said, adding the festival was celebrated with great fervour in Jammu as well.

In Uttar Pradesh's Gorakhpur, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath led the traditional 'shobha yatra' in the city on Vijaydashmi as the head seer of the Gorakshpeeth, with people lining the streets and standing at vantage points to welcome the colourful procession.

Members of Muslim and Sindhi communities were among those who greeted Adityanath at various places along the route as he stood on a decked-up 'rath' (chariot).

In Bihar, the government made elaborate security arrangements, including deployment of drones and installation of CCTV cameras at sensitive points, to ensure peaceful celebrations of Dussehra in the state.

The security was beefed up across the state after a five-year-old boy and two women were killed on Monday in a stampede at a Durga Puja pandal in Gopalganj district.

The celebrations were, however, blighted in Jharkhand's Jamshehpur where two persons were killed and four others suffered injuries when a truck fell on them who were in a procession for immersion of the idol of goddess Durga.

The incident took place when the truck was negotiating a slope. The condition of two of the injured is stated to be serious, an official statement said.

In Punjab and Haryana, effigies of Ravana, Meghnad and Kumbhakarna were set on fire at scores of places.

Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann attended a Dussehra event at Hoshiarpur. He said it is good to see that a number of children have come to witness the festivities and it will help give them an even better understanding about "our rich culture and traditions".

In Mohali, along with effigies of Ravana, Meghnad and Kumbhakarna, an effigy symbolic of the drug scourge was also burned, while in Haryana's Panchkula, the key attraction was the 177-foot-tall Ravana effigy.
