

Article 370 abrogation gave new lease of life to Valmikis, asserts Kavinder

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: The revocation of Article 370 from the erstwhile state has given a new lease of life to Valmiki community members who live on the land that was allocated to their ancestors when they shifted to Jammu from Punjab's Gurdaspur district on the invitation of the erstwhile State Government in 1957.

This was stated by senior BJP leader and former Deputy Chief Minister, Kavinder Gupta while addressing a gathering after starting development work worth Rs 28 lakh in Valmiki Colony, Ward 20 Jammu.

Kavinder said that it's a dream come true for the people who earlier were victims of prejudice of successive governments that ruined the future of many under the garb of Article 370.

"It is unbearable that political parties having a particular mentality hobnobbed for years together to dent the interests of aforesaid communities in the Union Territory.

Those undermining UT status want corruption, nepotism to continue in J&K: Suri

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: "Politicians who are trying to exploit the sentiments of common people by stating that the Union Government demoted erstwhile J&K state by converting it into Union Territory (UT) are the same lot who, while taking advantage of the absence of important central laws, looted the state exchequer and unleashed corruption and nepotism here".

This was stated by BJP J&K Executive Member Raman Suri, who added that converting J&K into a Union Territory was the right decision taken at a right time, that not only allowed all central laws to be extended here but also gave the people of Ladakh their desired UT which no previous government ever cared for. In addition, several central laws extended to J&K without pilferage of money, investors are rushing towards J&K, youth is finding a fair way of recruitment and bad people are on the run.

Despite all this, if still these politicians are trying to undermine the credentials of Union Government or exploit sentiments of people by issuing their vague statements without any facts, it establishes that they are scared of their misdeeds done in the past and don't want the Union Territory of J&K to be cleared off all muck and filth rooted by them during their tenures as ministers and chief ministers.

Some of the former ministers and chief ministers are continuously issuing statements criticising UT status of J&K, which means they never wanted Ladakh to get what it had always been dreaming of and asking for. Their statements also establish that they don't want corruption, militancy or nepotism to be out of this place. Had they been saviours or well-wishers of the people of J&K, they would have cared to atleast appreciate weeding out of the corrupt and nailing of militants in the UT before asking for statehood at this stage.

Intensive Acting Workshop 'The Thinking Actor' culminates

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: "The Thinking Actor", an Intensive Acting Workshop culminated here Sunday at Natrang Studio with the presentation of 'Navrasas Demonstration' followed by a scene work 'The Methods' which was based on a story of Anton Chekhov and directed by talented National School of Drama alumni, Bhasha Sumbli and Sunil Soni.

It was a visual treat to watch the presentation embellished by creative set design, rich light design and soulful music.

Speaking on the occasion, Director Natrang, Balwant Thakur complemented the participants who got trained from the learned and experienced mentors and asserted that this endeavour of Natrang has certainly yielded fruitful result in the overall growth of the young theatre aspirants of Jammu.

He also appreciated the workshop directors for their praiseworthy efforts in imparting wholesome training to the youngsters and also mounting a highly professional and impressive presentation with them.

The show began with an intense nine emotion series called 'Navrasas Abhyas' which was demonstrated beautifully by a batch of nine actors.

This was followed by a presentation of a scene work, 'The Methods' which bares the philosophy and manoeuvres of an expert bachelor seducer, Peter, who demonstrates his foolproof methods to influence the young wife of his close friend, Nikolaiach, comparatively a simpleton.

Peter showers adulations on latter's wife, Irena, in an attempt to secure her, who later gives in but retaining her sobriety and unbending dignity.

It is a series of scenes that, give us a strong sense of Chekhov's take on the human condition. The story exposes the ridiculous, tender, outlandish, ludicrous, innocent, and weird frailties of human beings.

The scene work had 14 actors playing just three characters, as their alter egos, apart from Chekhov, who was the unifying element in the scenes, introducing them, commenting on them, and occasionally playing a role in them, but as a quirky version of the celebrated author.

The artists who participated in the presentation included Mahikshit Singh, Shivam Singh, Priya Sharma, Meenakshi Bhagat, Gautam Sharma, Diksha Pandita, Sagar Gupta, Kushal Bhat, Abhinav Sharma, Bhawani Singh Bali, Mohit Kaul, Prohitdeep Singh, Bhabik Sambyal, Palshi Dutta and Kajal Pandita.

The lights of the play were designed and operated by Bhasha Sumbli whereas the set design and the sound were operated by Sunil Soni.

The presentation was coordinated by Neeraj Kant, Mohd. Yaseen and Brijesh Avtar Sharma.

Students were asked to make cards for their fellow cadets and write messages also for wishing "A Happy NCC day".

A number of students sent their entries in online mode.

First position was bagged by Yashika Abrol of B.A Sem-II, second by Nidhi Singh Thakur of B.A Sem-I and third by Vasudha Devi of B.A Sem-III.
