NEW DELHI: Union Minister, Dr Jitendra Singh on Friday introduced "Integrated" governance concept and said that it is no longer an option, but a necessity.

Delivering the valedictory address at the 2nd Capacity Building Programme in Field Administration for senior officers of Jammu and Kashmir Administrative Service (JKAS) here, Dr Jitendra said after the new constitutional arrangement came into existence and following the creation of Union Territory, several governance reforms have been introduced in Jammu & Kashmir, which was not so earlier.

The Minister said, with the kind of patronage and support being offered by Prime Minister Narendra Modi to Jammu & Kashmir, this is an opportunity for administrators and civil servants there to establish a new work culture, aimed at obtaining the ultimate objective of Ease of Living for every citizen through the mantra of "Maximum Governance Minimum Government".

He said, the officers who have now undergone training must empower themselves with new ethos and practices and the Centre will provide an officer friendly environment that will propel the administrative system to work for the people and ensure that grievances are handled in a prompt and efficient manner.

Dr Jitendra asked the officers to take a lead in promoting Start-Up culture in the areas like Agriculture, Animal Husbandry, Science and Technology based on locally available resources and talent pool. Giving the example of a successful Aroma Mission for boosting cultivation of plants like lavender, the Minister offered all support through the Department of Bio-technology.

However, he said, now that Jammu & Kashmir is a Union Territory and directly reporting to the Centre, Department of Personnel & Training (DoPT) has initiated the exercise to expeditiously conduct Cadre Review. This will also help in timely promotions as well as timely induction of UT officers into All
