

Centre to help J&K students returning from Ukraine to complete their studies: LG

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: Jammu and Kashmir Lt Governor Manoj Sinha on Monday said the Centre and his administration are deeply concerned about the future of students evacuated from war-hit Ukraine and working on a policy to facilitate completion of their studies in the country.

Sinha was interacting with a group of MBBS students of UT who have returned from Ukraine at Jammu Raj Bhawan.

Assured the students that GOI & UT govt is deeply concerned about their future and working on a policy so they can complete their studies in the country, he tweeted and shared a picture with the students who included both boys and girls.

Lt Governor Manoj Sinha during meeting with J&K students evacuated from war-hit Ukraine.

A BJP spokesperson said the group of students was led by party secretary Arvind Gupta and submitted a memo-gratitude towards Prime Minister Narendra Modi for the successful conduct of 'Operation Ganga', which led to the safe return of Indian students who were stuck in Ukraine after the Russian invasion.

The students also expressed their gratitude towards Sinha for the unconditional support in managing the crisis, he said.

They were also thankful to the local administration for working as a bridge between parents and the government, the spokesman said.

He said the students shared their worries about future studies due to the prevailing situation in Ukraine and requested the Lt Governor to help them to continue their studies in India.

3 days NABH workshop starts at GMC Jammu

Principal & Dean, Dr. Shashi Sudan Sharma addressing a workshop.

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: Three days workshop of programme on implementation on National Accreditation Board for Hospitals & Health Care providers (NABH) 5th edition Hospital Standards started at GMC, Jammu as per the directions and guidance of Additional Chief Secretary HME Vivek Bhardwaj.

The workshop was inaugurated by Principal & Dean, Dr. Shashi Sudan Sharma, who said that GMC being a tertiary care hospital is providing best healthcare services to the public and under the guidance of Additional Chief Secretary HME Vivek Bhardwaj, the institute is progressing further and we are constantly trying to improve the healthcare services and this training shall definitely help in adoption of best practices in the Hospitals.

She highlighted the role of standardized training by NABH and impressed upon the participants that the intent of programme is to improve the healthcare quality and patient safety in the hospitals with the aim of being recognized nationally & internationally at par with other healthcare accredited Hospitals accredited by International Society for Quality Assurance (ISQUA) in Healthcare.

She exhorted the participants to learn the best practices and implement the same on daily basis in their working.

The training is being attended by 42 participants from different departments which includes Faculty & Nursing Staff.

The Course faculty of NABH headed by Dr. Punam Bajaj, Director NABH shall train the participants on 5th Edition of NABH Accreditation Standards for Hospitals in the 3 days training programme.

In the welcome address Dr Seema Gupta HoD, Pharmacology, GMC Jammu & Nodal Officer for this training said that the focus of accreditation standards for hospitals is not only to provide patient safety and quality of the delivery of services by the hospitals but it also brings credibility, responsiveness, transparency and innovation to the system.

HoDs, Administrator AH, Medical Superintendents, Faculty Members and paramedical staff attended the inaugural function. The vote of thanks was presented by Dr Shafqat Khan, OSD, H&ME Deptt of J&K.

Army's Tiger Division celebrates

80th Raising Day

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: The Jammu-based Tiger Division of the Indian Army's Rising Star Corps on Monday celebrated its 80th Raising Day with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior Commissioned Officers and other personnel also paid homage to the slain soldiers, he said.

A two-minute silence was observed for the fallen soldiers of the division, he added.

The Tiger Division was initially raised in 1942 and participated in World War II. After WW II, it was de-mobilised and was re-raised in March 1948 during the first India-Pakistan war. Since then it has participated in the wars of 1965 and 1971, and in various operations including Operation Vijay, Operation Parakaram and Operation Zafar, where it earned laurels for its valour, the spokesperson said.

The Army's Tiger Division celebrated its 80th Raising Day on Monday with a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial here to pay homage to the soldiers who sacrificed their lives for the nation, a defence spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding, Tiger Division, Maj Gen Neeraj Gosain extended warm greetings to all personnel and their families. He exhorted all personnel to re-dedicate themselves to the service of the nation, the spokesperson said. Deputy General Officer Commanding Brig Gautam Sehan laid a wreath at the Tiger War

Memorial along with Lt Col Rishma Sarin. Junior