

Kabhi Eid Kabhi Diwali: Director Farhad Samji not coming on sets; Salman Khan and assistants ghost directing the movie?

Salman Khan's next big release is Kabhi Eid Kabhi Diwali, which promised to be full of action and comedy and a complete family entertainer in the mould of most of his movies. Farhad Samji is supposed to be directing the movie. However, fresh reports have surfaced of Farhad Samji not coming on the sets and Salman Khan ghost directing Kabhi Eid Kabhi Diwali along with the assistant directors. So, how much truth is there to this and if it's true, then why this strange, new development?

A well-placed source within the industry has exclusively apprised BollywoodLife that Farhad Samji did direct about 10% of the Kabhi Eid Kabhi Diwali, but after going through the rushes, Salman Khan and his co-producers don't seem all too pleased with what they received. Our source adds that their confidence in Farhad rectifying what he already did or displaying any improvement going forward wasn't too high, given his track record thus far with his last release, Baehhian Padney, being a big flop, and though Housefull 4 before that was a hit, it's said that Sajid Khan had already completed more than 70% of the movie before leaving and the remaining portions wrapped by Farhad were actually the weak parts of the franchise film.

Even Farhad's previous two films, Entertainment and Housefull 3, were panned, even though the latter scraped through at the box office. Considering all this, our source reveals that Salman Khan decided he needed to step in if Kabhi Eid Kabhi Diwali had to be salvaged, and when he can't always be behind the camera due to his other responsibilities as lead star and one of the main producers, the ADs are lending a helping hand.

The Archies: Arjun Kapoor has THIS advice for sister Khushi Kapoor as she gears up for Bollywood debut

Arjun Kapoor is right now the favourite 'bhaiya' of Kapoor sisters Khushi Kapoor and Janhvi Kapoor. Their bond is something that everyone is in awe of. Arjun Kapoor is one protective and cool brother at the same time. While Janhvi has made her mark in Bollywood, little sister Khushi Kapoor too is all set to make her debut in the industry.

Coming from a filmy Khandhaan, obviously, there will be a lot of one to advise on how to choose things wisely. Recently in interaction with Pinkvilla, Arjun was asked about his advice to sister Khushi who is all set for her debut with Zoya Akhtar's directorial The Archies along with Suhana Khan and Agastya Nanda and other actors.

Arjun said, "Sunao sabki, Karo Apni (Listen to everyone, do what you think is right for you). There was a point when Janhvi was dabbling about whether she should do Gunjan Saxena or not for a bit. That's the same thing I told her; I said eventually it's not about whether this is the perfect second film or not, there is no perfect second film."

Karan Johar hails KGF, RRR, Pushpa directors; says, 'They have raised the bar for Indian cinema'

Karan Johar was present at the trailer launch of JugJugg Jeeyo today. The film stars Varun Dhawan, Kiara Advani, Anil Kapoor and Neetu Kapoor in key roles. Karan was asked why he addressed the trailer as 'Hindi film trailer'. He said, "When we specified Hindi, it is really a function of technicality. Gangubai Kathiawadi has done solid business well last week, Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2 has done a solid opening. We hope and wish that Jug Jugg Jeeyo also becomes a part of that list. We also want that films made in every language should work and so should our films."

The filmmaker went on to hail the directors of KGF, RRR and Pushpa. He said, "We can proudly say that we are a part of Indian Cinema. When the business of RRR, KGF, Pushpa did so well, we can say that it is Indian cinema. We are proud of all those films, we are proud of Indian cinema. They have raised the bar of the Indian cinema. Prashanth Neel, SS Rajamouli, Sukumar and KGF all that has completely told us how big our standard can be and how far we can reach."

Recipes

Kachhe Aam ki Launji

Ingredients
5 raw mango
4 tablespoon mustard oil
2 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon turmeric
salt as required
300 gm crushed jaggery
1 teaspoon panch phoron
1 dry red chili
1/2 teaspoon red chilli powder

Method:
Wash the raw mangoes, peel them and cut into cubes. Pour mustard oil into a pan and put it on heat. Then add 1 teaspoon Panch Phoran. Add 2 bay leaves and 1 dry red chili. It should be cooked at a smokey temperature for a while to get proper flavour.
Add raw mango cubes into the pan. Stir well for at least five minutes so it is sautéed properly.
Cover it with a lid and cook for 10 minutes. Remove the lid. By now the mango is half cooked.
Add ½ teaspoon turmeric powder, ½ teaspoon red chilli powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Stir it for approx 5 minutes so spices get incorporated.
Add crushed jaggery. Mix well, cover it with a lid and let it cook for 5 minutes.
Remove the lid now and the texture will be saucy. Your Kache Aam ki Launji is ready to be served now.
