made by the people of Kathua and Kandi and compensating them to correct this historical imbalance.

Highlighting the critical need for job creation, Jasrotia called for the rapid industrialization of Kathua. Recent investments in the textile industry and the establishment of new industrial units are steps in the right direction, with the potential to employ hundreds of local youths. Jasrotia commended the UT government for its efforts but stressed the recognizing the sacrifices urgency of expediting this process to ensure sustainable development and economic growth for the region's future.

Jasrotia's memorandum represents a unified demand from Kathua for justice and progress. It calls on both the Punjab Government and the UT administration to take swift and decisive actions to address historical inequities and pave the way for a prosperous future through sustainable development and employment opportunities.
