

Modi institutionalized 'capacity building' for civil servants: Dr Jitendra

STATE TIMES NEWS

NEW DELHI: Union Minister, Dr Jitendra Singh on Monday said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has institutionalised the "capacity building" for civil servants, who are the pivotal instruments of governance:

Launching the "National Standards for Civil Service Training Institutions" at Capacity Building Commission (CBC) headquarters here, Dr Jitendra said, India became the first country in the world to come out with a unique model to create standards for civil service training institutions along with capacity building commission.

The National Standards for Civil Service Training Institutions (NSCSTI) is developed by CBC to create a baseline for Central Training Institutes on their current capacity, for elevating their quality and capacity of training delivery and to harmonise standards for training. It will also set aspirations for training institutions to strive towards excellence. The country is having standards and accreditation in higher education, healthcare and environment, ment, but for the first time it became applicable for training institutions also. Dr. Jitendra underlined that the Civil Service Training Institutes are the most critical actors in the supply-side ecosystem as our civil service training institutes train 31 lakh employees of the Government of India. He talked about the importance of having a common baseline and a standard scale of measurement for the diverse training institutes in India, which is instrumental in enhancing the capacity of CTIs and supporting them in adopting an aspirational path to achieve their specific goals and parameters.

Dr Singh said, standardisation in the training ecosystem will play a pivotal role in elevating capacities of a training institute. He congratulated the Capacity Building Commission (CBC) for developing National Standards for Civil Service Training Institutions' (NSCSTI), which will act as a tool to drive standardising and harmonisation. The Minister also commended the whole-of-government approach taken by the Commission while ideating on the focus area of the standards.

Dr Jitendra informed that CBC consulted various Central Training Institutions (CTIs), academia, global standard setting bodies in the development of the standards. He added that studies conducted by CBC highlighted 8 focus areas such as Training Needs Assessment (TNA), Faculty Development, Collaboration with different institutes, digital readiness etc. which have the potential to significantly elevate civil service capacity building. Dr Jitendra said, India's Central Training Institutions (CTIs) must contribute to the lifelong learning of the officers and act as mentors throughout their careers. He said, the three Es of civil service learning: Empowered learning, Effective Learning, Exploratory Learning and Electronic Learning. He further elaborated that engaging CTIs through a process of self-assessment will instil ownership of their transformation. A one-stop platform has been developed for streamlining the accreditation process for our training institutions and this will highlight best practices and enable cross-sharing and collaborative learning among CTIs, the Minister added.

In his concluding remarks, the Minister said that training of officers and personnel requires to be constantly reviewed and upgraded in view of the fast pace of evolution in all spheres of life. He said, best global practices should be incorporated in training modules along with some incentives for excellence. He said, there is a need to align individual and departmental priorities to our national aspirations and priorities.

UC Kindies preparing for Guinness World Record, India Book of Records

STATE TIMES NEWS

MADHYA PRADESH: In this era of globalization, every child needs holistic development. Along with studies, children should get a platform to show their talent in sports and other activities. Keeping this in mind, children in U. C. Kindies are encouraged to participate not only in studies but also in other activities.

According to Meeta Bafna, Director of U. C. Kindies, "We watch for the children's skills and passions and encourage them to pursue those things in order to help them develop. To do this, numerous events and contests are regularly organized to highlight their talent. We can assist kids in advancing in their chosen fields by recognizing their skills".

Further she added, "By identifying children's ability in various activities, we are working to build their skill. In addition, we are getting ready to submit entries to India's World Book of Records and the Guinness Book of World Records with the support of our gifted children."

She also mentioned to us that the 3-year-old schoolgirl Krisha Prajapati has lately been assigned a renowned gym trainer. She is getting guidance from the trainer in push-ups, pull-ups, plank, handstands, body, leg, and other movements. She performs 20 to 25 pushups, as well as planks and pullups for 10 to 15 minutes. This is a 3-year-old girl's first-ever record.

Director Meeta Bafna stated that in addition to teaching the students daily meditation, yoga, and Indian cultural shlokas, they also provide them with an in-depth understanding of Indian culture. So that kids may embrace these values in their life and grasp the significance of our culture. Along with this, students are also given education in Sanatan Dharma, which helps them develop morals and their understanding of religion. Our school is progressing in the same way as Nalanda Vidyapeeth.
