Transparent recruitment system...

was a wrong perception that no jobs were there in the Union territory.
Let me tell you that the J-K government has given the highest number of civilian jobs in its history last year. Jobs are there but they are not in the market for sale, Mehta said.
The spokesman said during the ongoing Parliament session, Union Minister of State for Home Nityanand Rai informed that from August 2019 to June 2022, 29,806 aspirants were recruited by the J-K administration and nearly 5.2 lakh jobs were created through self-employment schemes.
During the past three years, the administration has introduced numerous self-employment schemes to help the youngsters to set up their ventures, he said.
Mission Youth has been one of the most rewarding initiatives on behalf of the J-K administration, he added.
The Mumkin' (livelihood generation) scheme under Mission Youth has helped unemployed youths to procure small commercial vehicles, on a subsidised basis, to establish a sustainable livelihood line in the transport sector, the spokesman said.
The Spurring Entrepreneurship Initiative scheme is based on the theme Youth Enterprise with Innovation (YouWIN)/ Champion for Innovation programme for encouraging young entrepreneurs especially young women towards innovations in various enterprises, he said.
Similarly, he said, the Tejaswani (Radiant) scheme is aimed to promote entrepreneurship among the young women. It envisages giving financial assistance up to Rs 5 lakh to young women for setting up gainful self-employment ventures, suited to their skills, training, aptitude and local conditions.

Another programme Sahyta has been rolled out to provide a special financial assistance programme for youth in distress. Financial assistance of Rs 2 lakh is being provided under the scheme to youth in distress for setting up gainful self-employment units, the spokesman added.
Under sector-specific scheme for dental professionals, a customised financial support is being provided to dentists for setting up dental clinics. An amount of Rs 8 lakh is provided as financial assistance under this scheme for setting up a venture, he said.
Another scheme Rise Together envisions promoting community-based entrepreneurship optimally to generate jobs and income and promote the spirit of social service among new-age young entrepreneurs in the Himalayan region, the spokesman said.
Under the scheme, the eligible youth groups are provided with financial assistance to the extent of Rs 20 lakh comprising of upfront subsidy component minimum of Rs 2.5 lakh or 10 per cent of the project cost and a loan provided by the bank, 70 per cent of the project cost to the extent of Rs 17.50 lakh, he said.
To fill in the gap between demand and supply of skilled workforce and to create a strong environment for professionals and technical skill development in J-K, the administration has roped in prominent organisations like ICICI Foundation, Tata Technologies Ltd, Primal Foundation, Wipro, among others for working on upgrading skills of youths in the sectors having high employability potential like banking and financial services, digital marketing, media management etc, the spokesman said.

measures along the strategic highway were discussed in detail during the meeting, which was among others attended by Deputy Inspector General of Police, Doda-Kishtwar-Ramban Range, Sunil Gupta and Senior Superintendent of Police, Ramban, Mohita Shraman.

He first visited Machail and interacted with the police and CISF personnel deployed for the annual yatra, which started on July 25 and will culminate on September 5, the spokesman said, adding Dilbag Singh directed them to work in tandem for the safe and secure pilgrimage.
"J-K Police in perfect synergy with all sister agencies have so far successfully conducted the ongoing Amarnath Yatra (in south Kashmir Himalayas) which is in its last stage," the DGP said and stressed for the same synergy among all stakeholders for the successful conclusion of the Machail pilgrimage as well.

Electricity Amendment Bill...

(AIPEF) claimed in a statement that lakhs of power sector employees and engineers across the country stopped work on Monday and held demonstrations in protest against the amendment bill.
The AIPEF alleged that the bill will end all subsidies to power consumers affecting commoners, especially farmers and the downtrodden.
Minister Singh claimed the opposition members were indulging in "false propaganda" against the bill.
"The farmers will continue to get free power. There will be no roll back of subsidy," he said amid calls for wider consultations on the contentious measure.
"We have consulted the states and other stakeholders. This bill is pro-people and pro-farmers," Singh said as he introduced the bill in the Lok Sabha.
Opposing the introduction of the bill, RSP MP N K Premachandran, Congress members Manish Tewari and Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, CPI(M)'s M A Arif, Trinamool member Saugata Roy and DMK leader T R Baalu said the draft legislation was against the federal structure of the Constitution.
Premachandran said electricity was on the concurrent list and it was the "bounden duty" of the Centre to have "effective consultations" with state governments before introducing the bill.

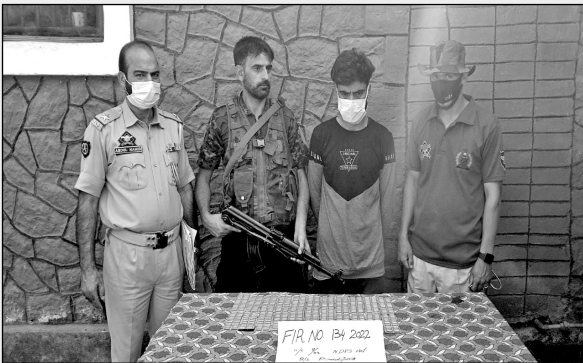

Tewari said the bill envisages allowing multiple private companies to provide electricity in the same area, a provision that could lead to "privatisation of profits and nationalisation of losses".
He contended that the legislation, which seeks to facilitate non-discriminatory open access to the distribution network of a distribution licensee, also sought to reduce the role of the Centre in distribution of electricity.
Roy and Arif said the bill was contrary to the assurances given by the Modi government to the Samyukta Kisan Morcha (SKM), which had laid a year-long siege at some of the border points in the national capital demanding roll back of agricultural reforms and shelving of proposed amendments to the Electricity Act. The three controversial farm laws have since been withdrawn.
Baalhu said the Tamil Nadu government was giving free electricity to farmers for the past several years and the proposed amendments could affect "poor farmers" who receive free power.
Opposition members demanded a division on the motion moved by the minister to introduce the bill, which was rejected by the Speaker.
"You can seek division only from your respective seats and not from the Well," the Speaker said.
The opposition resorted to sloganeering for a while and then staged a walkout from the Lok Sabha.
Chief Minister Kejriwal termed the proposed amendments to the Electricity Act as "dangerous" and urged the Centre to not go ahead with it in haste, claiming that it will only benefit a few power distribution companies.
He said the bill will increase suffering of the people as it will make problems associated with power supply and distribution more serious instead of addressing it.
"This law is very dangerous," Kejriwal said in a tweet in Hindi.
"This will make the electricity problem more serious, instead of addressing it. People's suffering will increase. Only a few companies will benefit. I appeal to the Centre to not bring this (bill) in haste," he added.
Chief Minister Mann said the introduction of the bill was an attack on the constitutional rights of the states.
He accused the Union government of "weakening" the foundations of the federal structure through "such nefarious designs".
Mann said it was another attempt of the central government to "undermine" the authority of the states. The Centre should not consider the states as puppets, he added.
The states will not sit silently against this attempt of the government of India to "dilute the federal spirit of our democracy," Mann said in a statement issued in Chandigarh.
The bill seeks to amend section 14 of the Act to facilitate usage of distribution networks by all licensees under provisions of non-discriminatory open access with the objective of enabling competition, enhancing efficiency of distribution licensees for improving services and ensuring sustainability of the power sector.
It also envisages amending section 62 of the Act to make provisions vis- -vis graded revision in tariff over a year besides mandatory fixing of maximum ceiling and minimum tariff by the appropriate commission.
The bill further provides for amending section 166 to strengthen functions that will be discharged by the regulators.
