Adding on the recent natural calamity, Gupta said: "Yes, people were worried after the cloudburst and flash floods here, but their faith in Lord Vasuki Nag is so strong that nothing could stop them. On the contrary, this year we have seen even bigger participation. People came with prayers not only for themselves but for the safety and prosperity of the entire region.'

One of the most awaited rituals, the display of the sacred 'Patt'-the royal robe presented by Emperor Akbar to Raja Nag Pal-was also performed with traditional rituals.

The venue was abuzz with activity as locals set up stalls selling eatables, toys, and religious books. The younger generation too participated enthusiastically, expressing joy at reconnecting with their cultural

Meanwhile, elaborate security arrangements were put in place. SDPO Bhaderwah Shoket Ali. SHO Bhaderwah Suresh Gautam, and Inspector Irshad Ahmed personally supervised the deployment to ensure the smooth conduct of the festival.
